Let's Start!

Let's review!

Learning Outcome

Describe characteristics of different people and their jobs.

Ask your partner:

- Do you want to go to Africa?
- If you go to Africa, where do you want to go and what do you want to do?

Can Do Statements

- I can agree and disagree tactfully.
- I can compare two things.
- I can talk about hypothetical actions and events in the future.
- I can say what I was doing when something else happened.

Let's Explore!

Sally's dream comes true.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- John: Sally, nice to hear from you. I miss you.
Sally: Awesome. Guess what? I'm taking a trip to Africa soon.
John: That's tremendous. I was thinking about Africa when this tourism job came up.
Sally: Well, going on a trip is good, but your job is even better. You go on a tour every week.
John: Well, not exactly. If I stay on, I will visit 20 countries this year.
Sally: I was dreaming about Africa when I was in college. It's bigger than the US. Being there would make my blog more interesting. After I go on a safari, I will definitely blog about it.
John: Good idea. Traveling is more enriching than watching it on TV. It should be compulsory for every college student.
Sally: Well, I'm not so sure about that. Not having the money is problematic.

Let's Practice!

How do Sally and John feel about going to Africa?

Instructions: Read the sentences, and select all the comparative words.

1. Going on a trip is good, but your job is even _____.
better / more interesting
2. Africa is _____ the US.
more enriching / bigger than
3. Being there would make my blog _____.
more enriching / more interesting
4. Traveling is _____ than watching it on TV.
more enriching / bigger than

Let's Practice!

Do you agree with me?

Instructions: Read the clues on the left. Check off the correct box in the table. There is one answer per question.

	Agree	Disagree
1. That's tremendous.
2. Well, not exactly.
3. Good idea.
4. I'm not so sure.

Extension Activity

Talk to your partner about Africa, and write some sentences comparing it to your country.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- What do you know about Africa? Write 5 sentences about Africa or its countries using comparatives. Ask your partner to do the same.
- Ask your partner in English if they agree with your statements.
- Write an e-mail to a friend in English about what you want to do when you get to Africa.
Example: If I go to Africa, I will ...

Target Words

- to miss someone (verb): to feel that you want to be with someone but you can't e.g. John misses Sally after not talking to her for a long time.
- Guess what? (expression): You say this before you tell someone something interesting or surprising to catch their attention.
e.g. Sally tells John some interesting news, "Guess what? I'm taking a trip to Africa."
- tremendous (adjective): very large or excellent e.g. John thinks it's tremendous that Sally gets to go to Africa.
- compulsory (adjective): required by a rule or law
e.g. John thinks traveling should be compulsory for every college student.
- enriching (adjective): very good quality or useful e.g. Traveling is more enriching than watching it on TV.
- problematic (adjective): describes a situation that's a problem
e.g. For a college student to not have money is problematic.

Learning Points

Agreeing and Disagreeing

You use different phrases to agree and disagree tactfully (politely).

At the workplace, we ask for others' opinion with questions such as:

- What do you think?
- I'm interested in your feedback/input.
- Please let me know your thoughts.

We show agreement or disagreement with statements in the chart below.

Agreeing	Disagreeing
I agree with you 100 percent. I couldn't agree with you more. That's so true. You're absolutely right. Absolutely. That's exactly how I feel. Exactly. You have a point there.	I don't think so. I'm afraid I disagree. I beg to differ. Not necessarily. That's not always true. I'm not sure if ... I see what you're saying, but ... I don't know about that ...

The First Conditional

You use the First Conditional to talk about real possibilities in the future.

You use the First Conditional to say it's possible that you will do something. In that condition, something else will happen.

If Clause	Main Clause	Meaning
If you cook the meat too long,	it will burn.	It's possible you will cook the meat too long. In this condition: it will burn.
If I ask the teacher to help me,	I will pass the test.	It's possible I will ask the teacher to help me. In this condition: I will pass the test.
If he gets a high-paying job,	he can go on a vacation twice a year.	It's possible he will get a high-paying job. In this condition: he can go on vacation twice a year.
